The joint conference of the Economic Development Council of Colorado (EDCC) and the Rocky Mountain Workforce Development Association (RMWDA) offers a unique opportunity for economic development partners, businesses, and stakeholders. RMWDA represents workforce development professionals that include a group of business development professionals statewide. EDCC, on the other hand, serves as Colorado's premier economic development resource, connecting public and private sectors, providing educational opportunities, and advocating for policies that enhance the state's economy.

Because workforce development is a form of economic development, this conference will bring together top influencers and thought leaders to address pressing economic and workforce issues facing Colorado. It offers new tools and solutions while facilitating collaboration and idea exchange among economic development professionals, workforce business development professionals, business leaders, government officials, and more. The intersection of economic development and workforce development is critical for fostering economic growth, job creation, and long-term prosperity. By joining forces, EDCC and RMWDA create a platform for knowledge sharing and networking that is crucial for fostering a vibrant and growing economy in Colorado.
